Eisenhower to 'Keep Plugging' for Durable Peace

Dulles Confers With President On Parley Report

Secretary Will Deliver Radio-TV Address Tonight

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower yesterday kept "plugging and plugging" for a peaceful solution of world problems despite Russia's blocking tactics at Geneva, a high official in a position to know Mr. Eisenhower's views said today.

The official is familiar with conclusions reached by the President and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in their discussion Thursday of the Geneva conference.

Mr. Eisenhower acknowledged privately that the foreign ministers conference was disappointing in its failure to produce agreements between Russia and the West on major differences, the official said. But the President is determined to continue his quest for a durable peace and feels there must be further efforts to work out a solution to world problems with Russia.

The President conferred again this morning with Dulles. White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said they discussed a draft of Dulles' radio-television report to the nation tonight on the Big Four foreign ministers conference at Geneva.

The President also had appointments today at his temporary office in the Gettysburg post office building with Dillon Anderson, his special assistant on National Security Council matters and with Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy commission.

Flying from Washington to Gettysburg with Strauss will be Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, chief of the North Atlantic Treaty organization and an old friend of the President's, who will be a weekend house guest of the Eisenhowers.

Hoover Attends Session
The President's discussion with Dulles Thursday at the Geneva conference lasted one hour and 20 minutes. Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., met with them.

While Dulles reportedly admitted to the President that the Geneva meeting fell far short of what the Big Four at "the summit" in July envisioned, the secretary was not without hope for the future. He rejected the idea that the Geneva stalemate means full-scale resumption of the so-called war, and according to good information, believes that by constant, future and patient negotiations, the Soviet Union might come around to a workable peace plan with the West, particularly involving the unification of Germany.

He also was reported to feel another Big Four meeting will be held eventually. The date will depend on future developments.

Fire Destroys Farm Home

The farm home of Joe Gross on Route 13 between Harrisburg and Equality was destroyed by fire Wednesday night.

The ruins were still smoldering today. Nothing remained but the chimneys. All contents were destroyed except 18 pieces of clothing.

The fire consumed the building swiftly. Mr. Gross, who bought the place three years ago, said today. He said he had no idea what started the fire that destroyed the two-story frame structure.

He said he and his family had been watching television and when one of his boys went to the kitchen to get a drink of water, he saw a fire in the back part of the house.

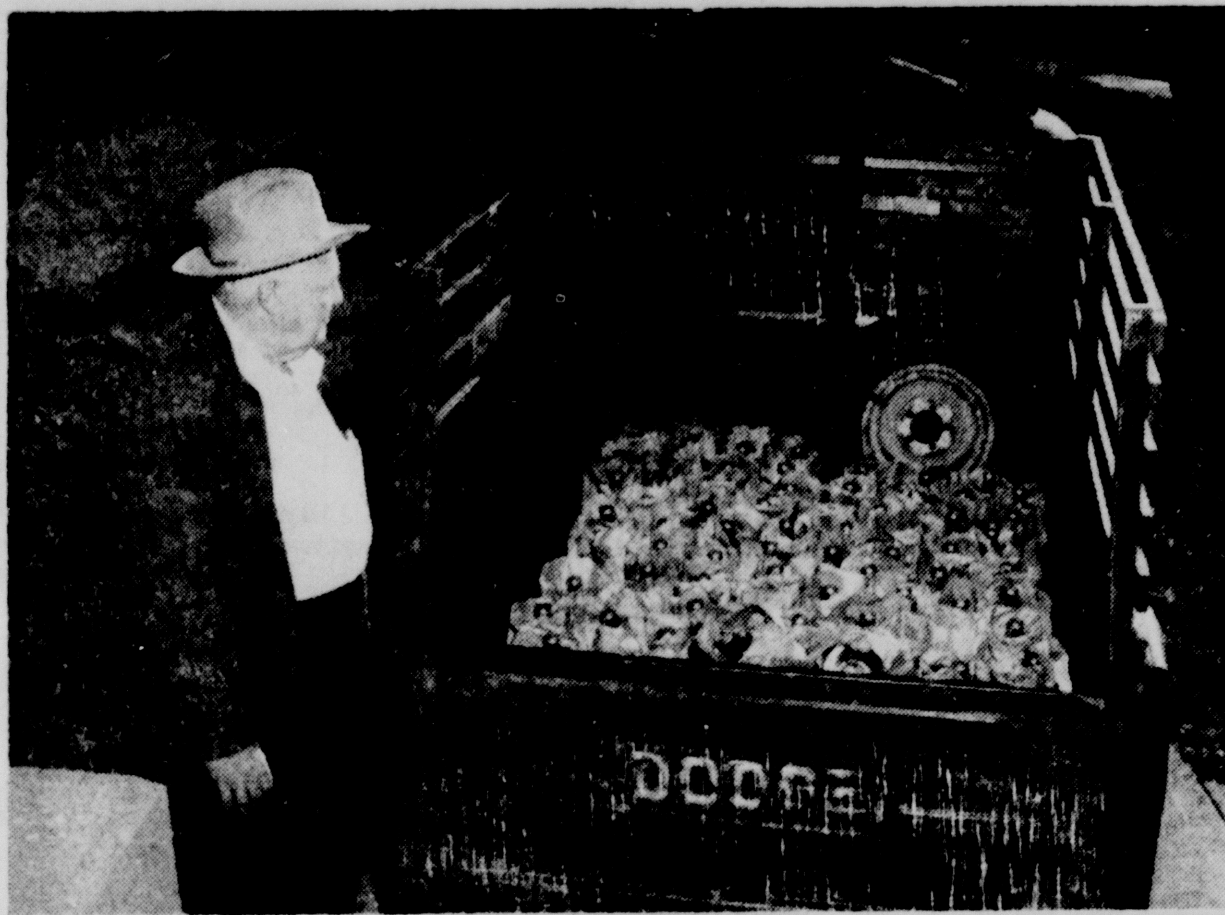

In a matter of seconds, he said, the lights went off and the house filled with smoke. The fire quickly spread to all parts and they barely got out with a boy, 9, who already had gone upstairs to go to bed.

On the outside, Mr. Gross broke a window glass to get in and pick up the 18 pieces of clothing.

He said he had some insurance on the contents but none on the house.

DESTROY MOONSHINE. STILL—A truck, halted by State Policeman Oron Souder for a minor traffic violation in Massac county, resulted in discovery of 100 gallons of moonshine aboard the truck. The top picture shows the truck with jugs of moonshine just before they were destroyed. Beside the truck is Sheriff George Kruger of Massac county. In the lower photo State Patrolman Souder is shown in the barn where the still was found and destroyed and where 65 barrels of mash were also destroyed. Complaints were filed against Benjamin Horn, 23, and Howard Stubblefield, 38, both of Massac county, by Eugene Healey of the Alcohol Tax division of the Internal Revenue Service. The two are being held in the Saline county jail. (A. Sweat Photos)

Snowstorm Blankets Pacific Northwest; Seven Dead in Midwest; Hunters Stranded

By United Press
Fears rose for stranded hunters in the frozen Midwest today and a blowing snow storm blanketed the Pacific Northwest.

A non-scheduled airplane carrying 74 persons crashed in a light snow storm soon after taking off from ice-covered Boeing Field at Seattle, Wash., early. Authorities said at least 27 persons were killed.

To the east, another wintry storm had caused at least seven deaths and it was feared that the death toll might rise to 10 in Michigan alone.

The known dead included two duck hunters who froze to death in icy Michigan quicksand, two men killed by high winds in Detroit, and a 12-year-old boy whose body was found in a Spooner, Wis., snow drift.

Indiana Man Freezes

In addition, a traffic accident on a snow-slicked street in Buffalo, N. Y., killed one person and an 80-year-old Knox, Ind., man froze to death when his stove went out during the night.

Six more hunters were feared dead in snow-covered northern Michigan, including a party of three professional golfers and an Illinois country club manager whose overturned boat was found in an icy lake. New search parties set out to hunt for the men today.

More search parties brought 16

Guard Rites at Equality Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. Charles H. Guard, 68, who died yesterday at 1 a. m. at her home in Equality, will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Equality Presbyterian church. The pastor, Rev. J. K. Ganette, will officiate and burial will be in the Elmwood cemetery. The body lies in state at the family home.

duck hunters from the frozen wastes of Wisconsin's Green Bay and Horicon marshes. Four of the hunters had shivered in sub-zero temperatures for 24 hours with only canvas windbreaks for protection.

Heavy Snows in West

In the Pacific Northwest, Seattle was covered by six inches of snow and the storm reached blizzard proportions at Portland, Ore.

Hundreds of Seattle workers gave up trying to reach their suburban homes and found refuge in hotels instead. At Portland, elevators stalled between floors in downtown buildings and a power failure darkened some buildings for half an hour.

Funeral Services Saturday 2 p. m. For Ray Anderson

Funeral services for Ray Anderson, Harrisburg resident who died Thursday morning of a sudden heart attack, will be Saturday at 2 p. m. at the McKinley Avenue Baptist church. Rev. J. D. McCarty and Rev. Elmer Grisham will officiate and burial will be in the Broughton cemetery.

Mr. Anderson was born April 27, 1907, to Elvis and Savannah Anderson in Jonesboro, Ark. He was married to Harriett Anderson who died in 1950, and in October of 1952 married Hazel Fife who survives him.

He was a member of the Operating Engineers and of the Masonic lodge. Masonic rites will be conducted at the funeral service. Besides his wife he leaves one brother, Virgil Anderson, Harrisburg, and two stepsons, Tom and Bob Fife. Two brothers and two sisters preceded him in death. The body lies in state at the Gas-kins funeral home.

PRISONERS MOVED

Benjamin Horn, 23, Howard Stubblefield, 38, and a third man were taken to the St. Louis jail this morning by deputy United States marshals.

Halting a truck for a minor traffic violation resulted in the clean-up of a Massac county still and more than 100 gallons of moonshine Tuesday night.

Named in complaints signed yesterday afternoon by Eugene Healey of the Alcohol Tax division of the Internal Revenue Service were Benjamin Horn, 23, and Howard Stubblefield, 38, both of Massac county.

Healey charged both in his federal complaints before U. S. Commissioner W. W. Damron of Harrisburg with violation of the Internal Revenue laws, namely the possession of untaxed liquor. The two are being held in the Saline county jail.

State Policeman Oron Souder Tuesday night saw a truck traveling between Metropolis and Brookport with its tail light and one of its headlights out. He halted the truck and saw a gallon jug sticking out from a tarpaulin over the bed of the truck.

Further examination showed 100 one-gallon jugs of moonshine under the tarpaulin; so Sheriff George Kruger of Massac county was called into the case.

Healey was called from Harrisburg and the two were questioned by him, Kruger, Souder and State Policeman Alfred Rushing of Metropolis.

The two men told the officers that the truck belonged to Stubblefield, and that there was a still on Horn's place near Joppa. Going to the farm, they found the still located in the barn, Healey stated. He said they found a large quantity of mash, a 200-gallon cooker, and 23 one-gallon jugs of moonshine in the garage.

County Board Tables Action on Annual Budget

Supervisors Award Contract for Repair Work at Jail

The Saline County Board of Supervisors yesterday tabled action on its annual budget and appropriation ordinance for the fiscal year starting the first Monday in December until the next meeting, scheduled for Dec. 15.

Action was tabled because no copies were available for the board members to study. They are expected to be ready before the next meeting.

Passage of the ordinance was the big item of business on hand for yesterday.

Another item was voting to give the contract for rebuilding the jail porch and doing some window work at the jail to T. P. Thompson and Son, Contractors. The Thompson bid was $1,038.90. The board set a time limit of 30 days for the job.

This was done upon motion of Raymond Field, Carrier Mills, who also gave a report on the court house building.

He told of bad guttering and cornices and the board empowered his Building committee to take action to replace and repair them.

He reported that the power circuits were terribly overloaded, that "we have everything on the circuits they'll handle," and there was a motion passed for the Building committee to secure a competent electrician to check the wiring.

William Douglas, Harrisburg, brought up the subject of trading one of the sheriff's county cars for a new one and he was authorized to find just what the sheriff desired in the way of horsepower, transmission and accessories, then advertise for bids from Saline county dealers.

In other action the board accepted the reports of County Treasurer Maynard Cannon, County Mine Inspector James Pittman, County Child Welfare Worker Annabelle Melton, and the financial statement of the Egyptian Health department.

Annual Jaycees' Pancake Day Saturday At Masonic Temple

Pancakes with plenty of maple syrup and real butter, milk and coffee, will be produced in prodigious quantities tomorrow at the Masonic temple during the Harrisburg Jaycees' annual Pancake Day.

Pancake Day is an annual fundraising project by the Jaycees, and this year, as in the past, patrons can consume all the pancakes they can eat for just 50c.

Tickets may be purchased in advance from any Jaycee, or from members of the Junior high school band. Early risers needn't worry about waiting for breakfast, either, because the early-bird committee will be on hand ready to serve the flapjacks at 5:30 a. m. Grid-dies will stay hot until 1 p. m., and anyone who wants to help clean up after that hour is cordially invited to attend.

Democracy, Christianity Make America Great, Dinner Club Speaker Says

The two ideals which make America great—the things for which people from all over the world come here seeking—are democracy and Christianity. These are the things that should be sold first to other nations above our material products.

Those statements were made last night in an address to members of the Southern Illinois Dinner club at the Kurto Country club by Captain Jose Guzman Baldivieso, Bolivian Consul to the United States.

If we place democracy and Christianity first, then we will receive less criticism and will not be misunderstood for placing gold and material things above ideals in an attempt to buy friends, the speaker stated.

He believes the basic fault of the U. S. Department is in stressing material products to other countries instead of the American ideals which have made this nation great.

He believes that the United States should have an academy to train diplomats along with our West Point, Annapolis and the new Air Force academy.

Gov't Reports Corporation Profits at All-Time High; Farmers' Net Income Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported today that corporation profits are headed for a new all-time high. In contrast, farmers' net income this year will be about 10 per cent below last year.

The corporation profit estimate came from President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisors. It boomed administration hopes for balancing the federal budget and cutting taxes in 1956.

For the first nine months of this year, corporation profits were rocketing along at an annual rate of $42,600,000,000.

But the decline in farm income emphasized the administration's difficulties with a problem that has become about the biggest issue now in the coming presidential election campaign.

The Agriculture Department predicted that the farmers' taxable net income for 1955 will be about $10,600,000,000 — $1,200,000,000 below last year.

Prospects for 1956 point to some further decline.

Actually, farmers' cash receipts so far this year have been about 4 per cent below a year ago. But higher production expenses are expected to shave the net taxable income to 10 per cent.

The council's report estimated that gross corporation profits in the third quarter — the July-September period—soared to an annual rate of $44,000,000,000. This boosted the profits for the first nine months to an annual rate of $42,600,000,000 — $2,000,000,000 more than the administration figured on only last August.

The administration meanwhile kept a firm hand on the nation's expanding credit. The six federal reserve banks raised their interest rates today from 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 per cent. This is a move which tends to curb borrowing.

An additional $1,000,000,000 more than the administration expected in August will pour into the Treasury in the form of taxes. This would go a long way toward cutting down the deficit which, in August, was estimated at $1,700,000,000.

IAA Endorses Flexible Farm Supports; Steffey Re-Elected

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's largest state Farm Bureau, the Illinois Agricultural Assn., has endorsed flexible farm price supports with a floor as low as 60 per cent of parity on basic crops.

Delegates to the IAA's 41st convention Thursday approved by a voice vote a resolution calling for sliding supports between 60 and 90 per cent of parity. The present range is 75 to 90 per cent.

Otto Steffey, Stronghurst, was re-elected to a second term as president and Charles Elliott, Streator, was elected vice president.

Elliott was replaced as 12th District director by Lloyd Walldie. Three new members were named to the board of directors. They were Milo Miller, Pekin; Merle Jeffers, Catlin, and George Bauer, Smithboro.

Convention Boosts Dues

The convention increased membership dues from $5 to $6 effective Oct. 1, 1956, and to $7 Oct. 1, 1958.

The national farm policy resolution, passed during the convention's final session, said "government purchase and storage of farm commodities do not substitute for markets."

"Farm commodity prices cannot be successfully supported over long periods at a level above that established by the normal functioning of supply and demand," it said.

The resolution suggested that "a soil fertility approach to the adjustment of agricultural production" was preferred to the present price support and acreage control program.

Questions Toll Roads

However, an amendment endorsing the "soil bank" plan for increasing fertility was voted down.

In other resolutions the IAA: Started a program to "strengthen the voice of agriculture" through public relations and other means.

Said the Illinois Legislature should pass on further toll road plans and expressed doubt about the "advisability of wide use" of such roads in the state.

Called for more "equitable assessments" of property taxes.

Opposed any increase in federal taxes on non-highway gasoline.

Said the federal crop insurance program should be put on a self-sustaining financial basis or dropped.

Benton Woman, Children Turn Up During Search

Believed Nut Hunting In Gallatin County; Were in Missouri

A woman and her two children who were supposed to have gone nut hunting near Shawneetown and who were the object of a search by Gallatin county officers turned up in Missouri.

The three were Mrs. Thelma Davis, 44, a son, Wayne, 18, and a daughter, Louise, 13, all of Benton. The son is in the Navy, on leave.

Gallatin County Sheriff Millard Holloway got a call at 2 a. m. today from George N. Davis at Benton telling him that his family left Benton at noon yesterday to go hickory nut and pecan hunting in the Round Pond area north of Old Shawneetown.

Holloway, fearing that the group had become lost in about 2,000 acres of woodland, got his deputy, James Fox, and the two scoured the area north of Shawneetown, taking all the roads looking for a red 1953 DeSoto sedan the group had left in, and asking questions of people in the area. He could find no clues.

However, at 9:30 a. m. today state police were notified by the husband that the group had turned up in Missouri, and Holloway was informed of the turn in events by State Policeman Adolph Sweet.

There was no information as to where in Missouri the trio had shown up and no information as to why they went there.

Gray Announces Area Meeting to Discuss 'Economic Plight'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Kenneth J. Gray (D-Ill.) announced plans today for a "sink or swim" meeting of national and state leaders and southern Illinois residents to discuss the area's "economic plight."

He said the meeting will be held in West Frankfort, Ill., on Dec. 31 and that he is inviting "every federal and state official from President Eisenhower to Gov. William G. Stratton on down."

With thousands of its coal miners seeking work, he said, southern Illinois is "at the crossroads" and has the choice of letting its economy slip further or "rallying behind a move to force national attention on our economic plight."

66 Returning Soldiers Aboard; 47 Survivors

Blast Precedes Crash; Officers Probe Sabotage

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—A DC4 airplane chartered by soldiers returning home from the Orient crashed into a house and burned on the southern outskirts of Seattle during a snowstorm early today and 27 of the 74 persons aboard were killed.

Coroner John P. Brill Jr. said there were 27 bodies in the morgue. Forty-seven survivors were accounted for. The Army said 25 of the dead had been identified as soldiers. Two other bodies were unidentified.

One of the unidentified dead was believed to be Earl McGrath, a pilot who was "deadheading" a ride with his wife and three children.

Several survivors said an explosion occurred in the plane before the crash. Others said one of the craft's four engines came loose and crashed into the fuselage. The crash occurred shortly after the non-scheduled plane had taken off from Boeing Field, an airport inside the Seattle city limits.

The possibility of sabotage was being investigated.

The soldiers, who chartered the plane themselves, had arrived here Thursday aboard a Navy transport vessel from Japan where they had been on duty.

Most of them were planning joyous Thanksgiving reunions with their families.

House Burns

The plane sheared off the tops of several towering fir trees before it smashed into the dwelling, which was occupied by Mrs. Colin Dearing and her five children. The house burned but the woman and the children escaped. Her husband was not home at the time.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration traffic control center said the crash occurred within the same minute as takeoff. Under normal conditions the plane would have been about 400 feet off the ground.

The crash scene was close to a heavily populated shopping center. Wreckage and bodies were strewn over a path 400 yards long.

Many of the passengers were able to walk away from the wreck. Some escaped through holes torn in the fuselage. Others were trapped in the twisted metal and rescue workers had to cut through wreckage to remove the charred bodies.

Ambulances and rescue workers came from miles around, driving through sleet and over dangerous icy roads. The victims were taken to four hospitals.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Truman Sees Adlai Leading Candidate With Estes Close Second; Stevenson Woos City Bosses Spurned In '52; Democrats Plan Fight For Farm Vote.

CHICAGO. — Harry Truman, who carries great weight in the Democratic party, was talking to one of his former cabinet members about the probable Democratic nominee for President.

He expressed the opinion that the Democratic party had three serious and strong candidates — Adlai Stevenson, Senator Kefauver, and Governor Harriman of New York.

"We don't want to be caught without a candidate," Truman's former cabinet member suggested.

"No sir, we don't," the ex-president replied. "I'm going to this convention with a candidate."

"If anything happens to Stevenson," suggested his friend, "if he doesn't gather strength—then what?"

"Then it could be Estes," said the man who did his best to block Kefauver at the '52 convention but who has made up with him recently.

Arvey wanted to urge the appointment of Mike Fanning, postmaster of Los Angeles, as Democratic nominee. But when he finally got Adlai on the phone he was flabbergasted to find that Adlai had already made his own choice—Steve Mitchell of Chicago.

Not only had Stevenson appointed Mitchell without consulting Arvey, but Mitchell was one of Arvey's Democratic opponents in Chicago.

From that time on, Stevenson saw little of the man who made him. This was not because either one soured on the other personally, but because Adlai was surrounded by a group of advisers who wanted him to play down the criticism that he'd been nominated by the big-city bosses. Stevenson worked at this so hard that some of the big-city bosses knifed him. They just didn't get out the vote. That was one reason why Eisenhower's majority over Stevenson in Democratic city strongholds ran so much farther ahead than was expected.

Today some of those Democratic bosses are still lukewarm if not opposed to Adlai. But this time he's leaning backward to warm them up.

ADLAI TO WOOL FARMERS The Adlai Stevenson brain trust has come up with the idea of having its candidate do a Kefauver in the farm belt—in other words, go on a handshaking tour.

They remember that the coonskin capped senator from Tennessee just went round shaking hands with people in 1952. He had no money to spend on radio or TV, so he shook hands. Result was to win more delegates than any other candidate.

So Stevenson advisers suggest he do the same this year in the farm belt. With the farm problem likely to swing the next election, they propose that Adlai visit parts of the farm belt, listen to their problems, let them see what kind of a real human being he is.

WORRIED GOP

Meanwhile, GOP advisers with their ear to the ground are almost frothing at the mouth over the rumbling farm revolt. This was the reason for the gripes against Ezra Benson inside the cabinet from such politically minded Ike-ites as Attorney General Brownell and Postmaster General Summerfield. They've heard reports of such meetings as that in Decatur, Ill., where the Farm Bureau, asked whether it approved Benson's policies, voted 60 to 1 against him. And the Farm Bureau hitherto has been strongly Republican.

They also know, because Brownell was Dewey's campaign manager, how important the farm vote was in defeating Governor Dewey in 1948.

Deweyites recall how GOP Kansas leaders Harry Darby and Andy Schoepel came aboard the Dewey train with long faces to warn that the farm vote was slipping. They also recall that Dewey did surprisingly well in the big cities, even carried San Francisco. But it was the farm vote that turned the tide.

Deweyites are warning the president's palace guard in the White House that the farm vote can do the same thing next year.

Note — Democrats who note the obvious efforts of the palace guard to persuade Eisenhower to run again, don't think this will affect the now rebellious farm vote. Farm surveys indicate that farmers are just as sore at Ike as at anyone — first because they remember all too vividly Ike's promise at the Kasson, Minn., plowing contest of 100 per cent parity; second, because brother Milton Eisenhower is considered the real architect of the Eisenhower farm program.

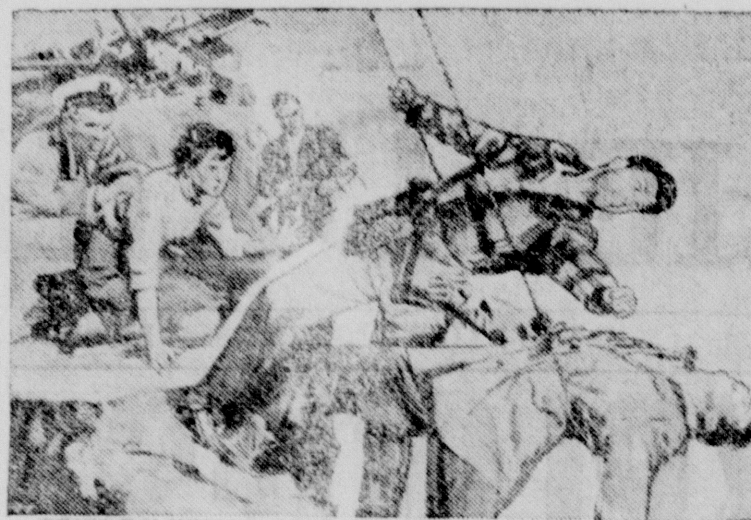

ANGLING FOR ADS

Democrats are in a dither over what advertising agency should handle their upcoming national campaign. They haven't much choice because all but two of the big ad agencies are strongly Republican. Some have been actively advising Eisenhower.

They thought they had definitely picked Milton Biow until the Supreme Court refused to hear the appeal of Big Artie Samish, lobbyist for the California liquor interests. Biow was personally excommunicated by the U. S. Court of Appeals in its ruling on the Samish case.

Other ad agencies angling for the Democratic account are Norman, Craig and Kummel, which inherited the William H. Weintraub business; Kastor, Farrell, Chesley and Clifford, which is strongly Republican but which hired Lloyd Whitebrook away from the Katz agency with the idea of getting the Dems' business. Whitebrook used to handle the Democratic account under Katz.

This leaves only two big agencies which are Democratic—Katz in Baltimore, and Doyle, Dane and Bernbach in New York.

Diogene plainly asked us while we lunched what we were up to. I said we were interested in the old fortress and since we happened on an old key which fit the door below, we were making a thorough exploration. He seemed satisfied. The secret of the 20 chests apparently had been well kept.

He was willing, in his halting French, to talk of the bearded man he had called Gros Oiseau.

Years ago, it may have been toward the end of the Big War, some people of the district had found him lying in the woods not far from here. Diogene touched his right temple. The white man had been badly wounded — here. The peasants took him home and in time he got well. With a smile and a headshake Diogene touched his temple again. But he was not right in the head.

When he had tried to tell who he was, he had flapped his arms. They had laughed and ever since then he had been called Big Bird.

Then, being a natural gentleman and having drunk wine and taken bread with us, Diogene rose, saluted us and went away.

"Do you recall the legend," said Lynch, contemplatively when he had gone, "of the burial of Kublai Khan with all his staggering wealth somewhere in the Gobi Desert? No one has ever been able to find the treasure because everyone who accompanied Kublai on that last journey was put to death. The practice here does not appear to have been so thorough."

With some force we made the key fit the other doors. Doors Nos. 1, 2, and 5 were creaked open — upon the same mustiness, the same emptiness.

Lily, neglected, took one of the flashlights and began to conduct her own investigations of the empty chambers.

A few minutes later I heard her call in a low voice. "Hey, Bobby! Mr. Lynch. I've found something."

Lily was in the near, left-hand corner of the stone room behind No. 4 door.

I gave Lily A-Plus for thoroughness. A thin piece of metal about half an inch wide and some eight inches long, with a saw edge, lay against the wall almost covered by the gritty dust.

"A broken hacksaw blade," Lynch said reflectively. "Very badly rusted... been there a long time. But clearly not since this place was built."

Lynch flung the hacksaw blade, our first and only clue, abruptly away from him. He didn't even look where it went. While we stared at him he dashed to the pile of stones, picked out the biggest of them, came staggering back with it to where we stood and began to bang it up and down on the stone floor.

The sound he now made with his pounding was a hollow and resounding "boom."

Lynch dropped his stone, rose, dusted his hands and said: "There is a second chamber below this one. I've been mentally indolent. When this fort was constructed, shells of the big coastal defense guns of the type which it was doubtless the intention to have mounted here, were backed by an additional booster charge of smokeless powder contained in silk bags. The shells and the bags were always stored separately to avoid danger of the powder being ignited from sparks produced by any handling of shells. Odd! The furniture of the mind contains these random fragments of information. But it takes some cue, like the hacksaw blade Miss Wyndam so fortuitously found to turn them up."

Lynch took the flashlight from Lily's hand and returned to the corner where she had found the rusted blade. "I do wish I had a whiskbroom!"

Lynch made do with a pocket handkerchief.

Peoria Man Heads Group to Attract Industry to State

SPRINGFIELD — The advisory board of the new State Division of Industrial Planning and Development Thursday named Roy K. Dallas, Peoria, as its chairman and scheduled meetings around the state each month beginning in January.

The 15-man group held its organizational meeting here to kick off a program to attract new industry to Illinois.

Gov. William G. Stratton told the board it could be "an effective instrument" in the task of gaining new industries for Illinois. He warned board members they "may have to fight to meet the constant competition among states to attract new industry."

The Planning and Development Division was created by the 1955 Legislature to work out a program designed to lure new plants and factories to Illinois.

Dallas said he felt the board should "develop information on the assets of Illinois and use that to get prospective manufacturers to investigate our state."

Revival to Begin At Carrier Mills

A revival will begin Sunday, Nov. 20, at the North Main Street Church of God in Carrier Mills with services each evening at 7 o'clock.

The evangelist will be Rev. Paul Alumbaugh. Everyone is invited to attend. Rev. Cordell Ellis is pastor.

Detroit became a city Oct. 24, 1815 and was never a part of a township.

At about the twentieth swipe he hit pay dirt. It was a tiny circle of metal less than half an inch in diameter, level with the concrete floor.

It was not surprising we had not discovered it before. Less than a teaspoonful of dust was sufficient to conceal it.

"Excellent mechanics, these chaps. This, you will observe, has been sawed off and bored hollow, for about half an inch, leaving screw threads. I'm afraid my search of Meer's cabin was incomplete. I am sure he must have in his possession a ring bolt which would fit this socket." He frowned.

"Did you, Miss Wyndam, say that when Meer went to Braun's cabin, you heard a clinking sound?" As if he might have two metallic objects in his pocket?" "Yes," said Lily shortly.

With his handkerchief he now quickly uncovered the crack of the trap door. It had become a very grimy handkerchief indeed.

"It may be difficult," said Lynch matter-of-factly, "to get a proper purchase with no lifting bolt. But if you two will bear down on the far end there I will see what I can do."

Lynch rattled around in the worn satchel and this time produced a foot-long steel rod. Lynch pushed it into the bolt hole, then forced it toward him. There was a second of stubborn hesitation, then the heavy concrete trap swung up and back.

Lily Wyndam screamed as we directed the flashlights downward.

Stone steps led down into the lower chamber. On them, a man was lying. His head was only a few feet below us.

He was hideously dead. A bullet of heavy caliber had struck him squarely in the face. Under that blast it had all but disintegrated.

"Braun!" someone whispered. (To Be Continued)

A small grease fire in the kitchen can be put out by pouring baking soda or salt on the burning area. Never throw water on a grease fire; this only helps to spread it.

Plane Crashes on Secret Flight With 14 Aboard

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The Air Force today rushed rescuers to wreckage atop a tower on Mt. Charleston believed to be that of a large military plane that disappeared on a "secret" flight with 14 persons aboard.

The missing aircraft, reported to be a C-54 military transport, was believed headed for a super-secret atomic energy commission installation at the nearby Nevada proving grounds and may have carried atomic scientists or other important officials.

An Army rescue team in a specially-equipped truck left in the pre-dawn darkness to race 27 miles northwest of here to the 11,910-foot peak, observation point for past atomic test blasts. Two Air Force planes spotted the wreckage Thursday after the transport had been overdue at its undisclosed destination for several hours. It was not known if there were any survivors.

Officers at nearby Nellis Air Force Base said two air rescue planes, flown to Las Vegas from March Air Force base in Riverside, Calif., would take off at dawn to drop two medics by parachute at the scene of the wreckage. They said helicopters also would be dispatched.

The missing plane, which left Lockheed Air Terminal in Burbank, Calif., early Thursday, was believed headed for Groom Lake, a top-secret base for a joint AEC-Air Force installation under construction about 115 miles northwest of here. The plane is based at Norton Air Force Base, Calif.

It was not known when the rescue party might reach the wreckage.

O. B. Dold, Wheaton, is president of the group.

She has another daughter, Mrs. Betsy Walters of Racine, Wis., and a son, Joe Bahl, of Evansville, Ind.

The body is at the Cox funeral home in Ridgway and tentative funeral plans are for Saturday at 9 a. m. at St. Joseph's Catholic church. Rev. William Wigmann will officiate and burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

SALEM, Ill. (AP)—Eldon Marshall, 26, Centralia, began a 24-year prison term today for the shotgun slaying of his wife, Virginia, 26, last July 9.

Carbondale Man Fatally Injured

HURST, Ill. (AP)—John Yoder, 40, Carbondale, was injured fatally Thursday night when a Missouri Pacific freight train hit his car on a grade crossing here.

He died in a Carbondale hospital about two hours after the accident.

Patrolman John Garnati said the locomotive struck the car broadside and dragged it 60 feet. He said there were skid marks for 30 feet on the highway and the engineer said he saw the car approaching and tried to stop the train.

A man and a woman were killed on the same crossing Sept. 28 when the car they were in smashed into a standing train. The crossing is floodlighted but there are no flasher signals for warning.

Operatic Soprano Plays Starring Role In Boul with Eight Process Servers

CHICAGO (AP)—Famed operatic soprano Madame Maria Meneghini-Callas, her eyes flashing and her "Madame Butterfly" kimono flying, played the starring role Thursday night in a fist-swinging, full-throated row with eight process servers.

The process servers tried to slip the hot-tempered diva two summonses just after she had taken a resounding curtain call following her final appearance for the Lyric Theater in the Civic Opera House.

Madame Callas shouted a resonant protest and a flying wedge of tenors, baritones, and opera lovers mowed down the process servers.

When the smoke cleared, the summonses were lying on the floor outside the soprano's dressing room while she held forth in full voice and several languages inside.

"Chicago will hear about this horrible thing they have done to me tonight!" she cried. "I think this is the worst insult to Chicago and Chicago opera lovers that has ever happened!"

Eight representatives of the U. S. marshal's and Cook county sheriff's office went to the opera to slap the summonses on Madame Callas.

They approached Madame Callas, called by some the greatest soprano in the world, as she stood among a circle of admirers and listened to the cheers coming from behind the fallen curtain.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Stanley Pringle led the process servers' charge, reaching out to touch her flowing kimono with his documents.

Madame Callas' famed voice, for which she receives $2,000 a performance, rose in vibrant protest. "Get your hands off me!" she shouted.

The cry was taken up in English, Italian, and other sundry languages as Madame Callas' supporters rallied around her and began to push toward her dressing room.

"Insult! Horrible!" Madame Callas shouted above the din.

The law officers emerged from the fray claiming a moral victory. The summons had touched the hem of Madame Callas' garment, they said, and she was therefore legally served. Both summonses concerned suits brought by a New York attorney, E. Richard Bargarzy, who claims he discovered the New York-born singer and signed her to a contract guaranteeing him 10 per cent of their substantial earnings.

Nine Seniors, Six Juniors on Varsity Cage Squad at Eldorado

Fifteen hopefuls are working out for positions on the varsity basketball squad at Eldorado Township high school, Coach Al Adams has revealed.

Cage practice at Eldorado started Monday, Nov. 14, and Adams greeted nine seniors and six juniors as varsity candidates.

The squad has both height and experience as all senior members received varsity letters for the 1954-55 season and the juniors were awarded sophomore letters following last season, with the exception of Gary Cawthon. Cawthon, 6-1, will be a playing manager. He was manager last season, but displayed sufficient ability to rate a request to try for the squad this year.

Nebraska Grid Coach Resigns

LINCOLN, Neb. — Nebraska began a hunt for a new football coach today on the eve of the Cornhuskers' biggest game of the season.

But even an upset win over unbeaten Oklahoma was unlikely to change the decision of Coach Bill Glassford, who announced his resignation Thursday.

Glassford, Nebraska coach for seven years, told a news conference he would not pick up a five-year option on his contract.

He said family considerations played a part in his decision, that even his wife and son had been subjected to "verbal abuse."

Athletic Director Bill Orwig, who was surprised by the announcement, said no plans have been contemplated toward finding a successor.

Glassford's contract stipulates that he must remain at the university until June 30, 1956.

In seven years, Glassford's Nebraska teams had a record of 31 victories, 33 losses and 3 ties through last weekend. In addition, the Huskers lost, 34-7, to Duke in the Orange Bowl last Jan. 1.

West Frankfort Couple Selected SIU Honor Parents

CARBONDALE, Ill. — "You asked for it, Dad."

That's the way Terry Lockman, Southern Illinois university freshman from West Frankfort, informed his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Lockman, that they had been chosen "Parents of the Day" at SIU.

Mr. and Mrs. Lockman will reign over activities at the annual Parents Day Saturday. This is the first year that representative parents have been chosen.

Terry, an 18-year-old education major, had planned originally to go to Scott Air Force Base Saturday for a ride in an Air Force plane. "But the folks decided they'd like to see the game," Terry said. He waited until Wednesday morning to drop their names into a ballot box.

Terry wasn't present at the Student Union when Marilyn Liebig, 1955 SIU Homecoming Queen, picked his parents' names from the box.

The Lockman family will be guests of honor at a student-parent luncheon to be held in the men's gym on campus and at the Southern-Northern Illinois football game, where they will sit in the president's box with SIU President and Mrs. Delyte W. Morris. They also will be guests at a pizza supper that evening sponsored by Delta Chi fraternity.

Mr. Lockman is manager of the Standard Tire Co., a sales and re-capping firm, in West Frankfort, where he has lived all his life. He has been with the same company for 32 years. Mrs. Lockman is a native of Marion. Terry is the only child.

Michigan-Ohio State and UCLA-Southern Cal Games To Decide Bowl Berths

By United Press
Three of those golden bowl berths—two in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena and one in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas—could be decided Saturday on the final full Saturday of the 1955 college football season, along with at least four major conference championships.

And if that isn't enough to satisfy the most eager gridiron fans, there will be a host of games between "traditional rivals," like Yale and Harvard, where victory is sweeter than any championship. At Ann Arbor, Mich., host Michigan will be a six-point favorite over Ohio State. If the versatile Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy can lead Ohio State to an upset triumph, the Buckeyes get the championship—but the bowl bid goes to Michigan State, which finished its league season last week.

At Los Angeles, UCLA will be a 10-point choice over Southern California. If the Uclans come through they take both the Pacific Coast Conference crown and the other berth in the Rose Bowl.

Bowl Chances Good

Chances are strong that UCLA will get the bowl bid even if it loses. In that event, Oregon State (a one-point underdog) can finish with a slightly better league record by upsetting Oregon. But the subsequent conference poll probably would give the berth to UCLA, which ripped State 38-0 during the regular season.

Texas Christian has a golden opportunity to become the host team in the Cotton Bowl, if it can make good as a 19-point choice over Rice. Victory would mean that only Texas can tie TCU for second place in the Southwest Conference, and TCU beat Texas this season. A Rice upset, however, would clinch the league championship for the pace — making Texas Aggies, who are ineligible for the bowl.

The other league titles to be decided Saturday are the Big Seven and the Ivy League.

Oklahoma, which already has clinched an Orange Bowl berth, is a 21-point favorite to beat Nebraska in the game which gives the winner the Big Seven crown. Princeton is favored by 13 points to beat Dartmouth and clinch the Ivy League diadem, but a Dartmouth upset would enable Yale, a 13-point favorite, to win the title by beating Harvard in the 72nd clash of their famed series.

Sugar Bowl Scouts
Pittsburgh and Miami of Ohio will be operating under the gaze of scouts from the Sugar Bowl.

The Pitt Panthers are six-point picks in their traditional game against Penn State, while unbeaten, untied Miami will try to finish its nine-game season with a perfect record by beating Cincinnati.

Pittsburgh also is under consideration for the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. That group announced Thursday night it might make an offer to the Texas Aggies to come there instead of the Cotton Bowl, and that it is considering also Georgia Tech, Navy, Mississippi, Mississippi State, Tennessee, Vanderbilt and Arkansas.

Notre Dame will find itself a 10-point favorite over dangerous Iowa Saturday.

Kefauver Backers Deny Stevenson Has Strong Lead for '56 Nomination

CHICAGO (AP)—Backers of Sen. Estes Kefauver today denied that Adlai E. Stevenson is forging a commanding lead for the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination.

A Bradley Even, convention manager in Kefauver's unsuccessful bid for the 1952 nomination, said Stevenson's strategists "are trying to create the atmosphere of a stampede."

"He's not nearly as strong as they pretend him to be and I believe he can be caught," Eben said. "That is, if he is in front-nobody has made an effort to catch him yet."

Eben, a Chicago lawyer, was interviewed in a hotel suite engaged as headquarters for the "Kefauver Planning Committee" during the three-day meeting of the national Democratic leaders here.

Kefauver and New York Gov. Averell Harriman, another possible candidate for the presidential nomination, both were due to arrive late today for the political doings.

Author is Found Guilty of Contempt Of Congress; Fined

WASHINGTON (AP)—Author Harvey O'Connor was found guilty of contempt of Congress today by Federal Judge Joseph C. McGarragh.

He was fined $500 and put on probation for a year. His attorneys promptly announced they would appeal the decision. Pending the appeal, O'Connor was continued free on $1,000 bond.

The charge against O'Connor, 58-year-old biographer of American millionaires, stemmed from his refusal two years ago to tell Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's investigating subcommittee whether he was a Communist when he wrote some books used in American overseas libraries.

Graham Denies Bombing; Hints Mother a Suicide

DENVER (AP)—John Gilbert Graham denied in county jail late Thursday that he time-bombed a United Air Lines DC-6B and hinted that his mother—one of the 44 victims of the crash—might have set off the explosive herself in a suicide.

In a copyrighted story, Al Nakkula, a Rocky Mountain News reporter, quoted the 23-year-old suspect as saying he signed a written FBI confession because "they told me they were going to put my wife in jail and I'd better get it straightened out myself."

Graham said FBI agents started questioning him at about noon last Sunday and didn't stop until 1 signed a confession about 4 a. m. the next morning.

When asked if he put a "present or a bundle of dynamite" in his mother's luggage, Graham replied: "I didn't put anything in her luggage. I only bought some straps to put around the luggage. . . . the hinges on the suitcase were breaking. I don't want to discuss the present."

Then Nakkula asked: "Did you have a premonition of your mother's death before you had been formally notified of it?"

Mother Called Friends

To this question Graham replied: "I didn't, she had. She called everybody she could think of before she left."

Graham said his mother, Mrs. Daisie King, had been ill and was hospitalized twice last summer and was "sort of depressed or nervous since Mr. King died last year." King was the woman's second husband and Graham's step father.
